FURNITURE MOVERSShipping*"HOTEL SHERMAN" IS EXTREMELY POPULAR WITH MANY ARMY FOLK

Army Troopship Here After a Long Delay at the Philippine Capital—Awaited Orders But Never to the Front—Inter-Island Steamers Will Sail for Hilo This Afternoon, Taking Hundreds of Excursionists—Rushing Work on Kiyo Maru Despite a Festal Holiday Season.

This good old troopship afforded a regular floating hotel for a lot of army men during our entire stay at Manila," so declared several arrivals in the United States army transport Sherman, in telling of their experience and the delay in leaving the Philippine capital.

The Sherman entered the harbor at noon this morning and went alongside the Oceanic wharf, there to remain until five o'clock at which hour the venerable army boat will proceed to San Francisco.

It was sailing day at Manila. One hundred and fifty first class cabin passengers and almost an equal number in the dormitories, not to mention the thousand or more enlisted men in the steerage, practically all belonging to the Twentieth, to the states after having completed a tour of duty in the Philippines.

Among the passengers destined for San Francisco is Willis Howes, formerly first officer in the United States transport Wright, who has been stationed in the Philippines for a number of years.

Old Neptune in Pleasant Mood.

Old Father Neptune, appeared on deck of the steamer Mauna Kea last night for a moment only, but dropped a hint in a brief talk with Purser Pete Phillips, that he never felt in better mood than at present time. He insured a pleasant voyage to the hundred or more passengers, who will depart this evening for Hilo and the volcano. The Mauna Kea was an early arrival this morning and some tall hustling was done in getting out a cargo of empties such as bottles and kegs, 2273 feet of native lumber, 16 crates chickens, 15 crates pigs, shipments of hides, turkeys and 170 packages of sundries, and preparing the ship for the reception of the travelers. A large amount of cargo is being loaded into the Mauna Kea, which will also serve to steady the flagship crossing the Hawaii channel. The steamer met with moderate trade winds and light swells on the return trip.

Mosquito Fleet Here for the Holidays.

Two steamers in the mosquito fleet are home for the holidays. The No. one from Kauai ports with shipments of chickens, pigs, 563 sacks rice, 255 sacks paddy and 38 packages sundries was an arrival this morning, her officers reporting fine weather on the average transport passenger list, was painful to observe.

The few civilians who had managed to gain transportation to the homeland by the "thirty dollar" route, were politely informed that a commercial vessel was leaving Manila within a few hours and that they might "beat it."

The Sherman remained tied at the quartermaster dock from October 21 until noon hour of December 10, during a greater portion of this time, elected to remain on board instead of returning to a Manila hotel where a dollar a day accommodations are unknown. This might possibly account for the presence of a muchly overworked crew which more than one resident in the stevedore department lagged around on the homeward trip. It was work all the time and the little gloom will probably hold full sway on board until the Golden Gate is sighted. Sad to relate, the Sherman is reported as an exceedingly "dry ship."

"How do you figure out a Happy New Year, on a toast with mineral water or tea?" snapped one officer this morning when asked concerning a fitting celebration on board at the birth of the new year.

The Sherman's cabins and dormitories are filled with army folk. The garden variety of civilians is conspicuous by his or her absence. In the "glory hole" are 369 enlisted men of the Seventh, 216 men of the Twentieth, 363 sailors, 30 servants, 36 convicts, in all 1881 passengers.

Nearly thirteen hundred passengers are en route to the mainland. Several stormy days were reported after leaving Nagasaki. The Sherman is leaving less than a hundred tons cargo here. The vessel is well laden with Japanese coal taken on at Nagasaki. The Sherman will be given a mail dispatch for the mainland.

Three stowaways, all Americans, were turned loose on arrival at Honolulu this morning. If they do not like the town, however, they will be taken aboard again, and given a further trip to Frisco.

Colonel Daniel Corrigan of the Seventh Infantry is the ranking officer on board the Sherman. Other passengers of note and prominently identified with the Seventh now en route to the mainland, are Major Charles C. Ballou, Major Charles M.
